

SIN-N-BRUTALITY was born out of the ashes of the breakup of the band TRIGGER EFFECT from Lodi, Ca. In June 2009, Jimmie Hunter, Scotty Lowe and Mitch Fletcher began jamming together again and writing new music. They decided to take their music to the next level and go with a heavier edge with attitude but still keeping the music melodic. The band hit the studio in Jan. 2010 to begin recording their debut album. After almost a year of searching for a bass player, SNB decided to give long time friend, John Corsaro a shot, thus completing the band. The band is still in the studio putting the finishing touches on their debut album "Road to Destruction" and out playing shows in the meantime! SIN-N-BRUTALITY makes the music they like, with no apologies or else.
